This 3,194 sq. ft. contemporary home in the Las Vegas suburbs provides what Pardee Homes Division President Klif Andrews feels new homebuyers want. “We want to continue to explore the potential for contemporary architecture in a new-home builder environment and think a modern feel is really what the home buyers of Las Vegas are looking for,” says Andrews.

The four-bedroom, four-bath home has a HERS 11 rating and features a 9.6 KW PV system that helps the house produce almost as much electricity as it uses. The home also has three separate outdoor living areas with a spacious casita defining the home’s luxurious backyard, complete with pool, outdoor kitchen, covered patio and stunning Heat & Glo Palazzo fireplace.

“This home really encompasses the latest in new home construction. The pairing of contemporary architecture, outdoor living spaces, and green focused construction practices were carried through the project down to the individual product selection,” says Danny Check of Hearth & Home Specialties. “It was a pleasure working with Pardee Homes to select the right fireplaces for this project and really rewarding to see how the two linear fireplaces provide the zone heating capabilities and contemporary aesthetic they were after.”
